Tipping Recommendations Spain

Tipping is rather uncommon & not expected or required in Spain, but is appreciated especially when the service & experience was exceeded. Generally, the more informal an establishment or exchange is, the less common tipping will be.

Cafés & Bars

When ordering a coffee or beer in Spain, virtually nobody will leave a tip—especially if that's all you order. Some locals may simply leave the coins they're given as change if they also order food, such as a pastry or a tapa, but many will simply pocket the change without a second thought.

Restaurants

Tipping is also not expected in the majority of sit-down restaurants. Just like at smaller establishments, many Spaniards—if anything—will just leave the change the wait staff returns to them after paying the bill.

For example, if the bill for your meal comes out to, say, 19 euros and you pay with a twenty, go ahead and leave that extra coin as a tip—or don't. It's completely up to you, and wait staff won't feel offended if they see you pocketing your change.

When it comes to larger group meals at more elegant restaurants, tipping is more common. However, most Spaniards in this situation still only leave about 5 percent of the total bill as a tip—a fraction of the 20 percent expected in the United States.

Taxis and Cabs

Generally speaking, most cab drivers in Spain appreciate but do not expect tips.

If anything, many Spaniards will simply round up to the nearest euro and give the driver that amount. However, there are still plenty of people who pay their cab drivers the exact amount shown on the meter, which is perfectly acceptable as well.

Some Spaniards will tip their cab drivers more if he or she performed a special service, such as helping carry luggage from the cab itself into a hotel. Even in this case, though, the total tip never usually exceeds one euro.

Hotel Staff

Tipping hotel staff in Spain is more common than the other instances listed above. You'll even see travelers from other parts of Spain leaving tips at hotels when visiting a new city.

- Porters: Around 1 euro per bag
- Housekeeping: Between 2 and 5 euros per day, left in the room after your stay or paid up front
- Concierge: 5-10 euros for exceptional service
- Room service: 1 or 2 euros to the person who delivers your meal
- Doorman: 1-2 euros if they help you with luggage or hail a cab

Spa and Resort Staff

As is the case with many of the above-listed service-industry professionals, spa staff are often highly trained and well-paid.

Tipping is not expected, but you can leave around 10 percent of your total bill if you wish.

Tour Guides

Your tour guide is most likely a freelancer with a varying monthly income, so they will almost certainly welcome any tip you choose to leave them. As a general rule, the smaller your group is, the more you should tip.

Recommended for Tour Guides:

€25-50 for half-day tour

€50-75 for full-day tour

For example, if you and your partner are taking a private guided tour and your guide provided excellent service, most people would tip them anywhere from 10 to 20 euros. If you're taking one of the ubiquitous free tours that make their way through the streets of Spain's largest cities every day, a 5 euro tip per person is fine.

Barcelona Introduction

Barcelona, Spain's second-largest city, is inextricably linked to the architecture of Antoni Gaudí. His most famous and unfinished masterpiece, La Sagrada Família, is the emblem of the city.

Like the basilica, Barcelona takes traditional ideas and presents them in new, even outrageous, forms. And the city's bursts of building and innovation give the impression that it's still being conceived. Both the church and the city can be tough places to get a handle on, yet their complexity is invigorating rather than forbidding.

Since it hosted the Summer Olympics in 1992, Barcelona has been on the hot list of European destinations. The staging of the Universal Forum of Cultures in 2004 also raised the city's profile. Over the past decade, better infrastructure, increased cruise ship traffic and a reputation for gastronomic excellence have put Barcelona at the forefront of European city destinations.

Like thousands of pilgrims before, you too will be touched and inspired as we explore Montserrat's magnificent mountain and its spectacular rock formations. Prepare for gorgeous views of Catalonia from the top and learn about the legend of the Black Virgin. Visit the mountain-top Basilica.

HISTORY:

The sanctuary of the Virgin Mary of Montserrat has its historical origins in the hermitage of Santa Maria, which Count Guifré el Pelós gave to the Monastery of Ripoll in the year 888.

In 1025, Oliba, Abbot of Ripoll and Bishop of Vic, founded a new monastery at the hermitage of Santa Maria de Montserrat. The little monastery soon began to receive pilgrims and visitors who contributed to the spread of stories of miracles and wonders performed by the Virgin.

In 1409 the monastery of Montserrat became an independent abbey. From 1493 to 1835, when the monastery underwent great reforms, growing and increasing in splendor, Montserrat was part of the Valladolid Congregation.

During the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, the Monastery of Montserrat became a cultural center of the first order. The Montserrat Music School produced important composers.

The French War (1808-1811) and distress of 1835 brought destruction and abandonment, but in 1844 began the restoration of monastic life, and in 1881 there were the Festivities for the Coronation of the Image of Our Lady, at which She was proclaimed Patron Saint of Catalonia by Pope Leo XIII.

The Spanish Civil War (1936 - 1939) led once again to the abandonment of the monastery. However, the Government of Catalonia managed to save Montserrat from being sacked and destroyed.

Today, Montserrat has been modernized to continue attending to the needs of pilgrims one thousand years after it was originally founded.

PALMA DE MALLORCA

Situated 345 mi/555 km east of Madrid, Mallorca (pronounced my-YOR-ka) is the largest and most popular of Spain's Balearic Islands, drawing visitors from the colder climes of Europe. It's the only member of the archipelago that enjoys and caters to year-round tourism.

Its beaches, sunny weather, and dazzling seaside scenery are the main attractions, though it retains a bit more of its traditional flavor than the Costa del Sol, another package-tour haven on the Spanish mainland. Most of the built-up, hotel-filled areas are around Palma Bay in the south, Alcudia Bay in the north, and along the island's cove-dotted east coast. In the center is a windmill-dotted plain called Es Pla that's home to several small towns and villages. In February, a virtual sea of pink and white blossoms from the 10 million almond trees fills this peaceful area of countryside.

The protected northwest area is, for many, the most beautiful of all. It has a long continuous mountain range that rises to 4,600 ft/1,400 m at its highest point. The mountain range towers above tiny hidden inlets boast silver-green groves of ancient gnarled olive trees, and shelters beautiful stone-walled towns and villages such as Valldemossa, Deia, and Soller.

Palma de Mallorca is the largest and most cosmopolitan city in the Balearics. In spite of the massive popularity of the island, the capital has managed to retain much of its original charm and character.

Day 10

San Sebastian Free Day

INTRODUCTION

Also known by its Basque name of Donostia, the beautiful city of San Sebastian, Spain, is picturesque, expensive and one of the most fashionable spots to spend the summer.

Long the chosen summer escape for kings, political figures, and celebrities (especially during its international movie festival week in September), San Sebastian is by far the most elegant coastal town in Spain. Belle epoque mansions, palaces, and stylish apartments line the waterfront, placing it more on a level with Biarritz and Cannes than mass-market Benidorm or Torremolinos.

Basque cuisine is considered the best in the whole peninsula. In the pintxo bars of the narrow-laned Parte Vieja (Old Quarter) and intimate harbor area, you can sample local fare—especially seafood—at its finest and most inventive. But San Sebastian is also a homely, relaxing, pedestrian-friendly town where you can bike along trails beside the Urumea River and take leisurely walks along the verdant coast overlooking the scenic Bay of Biscay.

MUST SEE OR DO

Sights—Taking the funicular to the top of the Monte Iguelo headland for the best views of La Concha Bay and the Vizcaya coast.

Museums—Basque art and ethnography at the San Telmo Museoa, located inside a former 16th-century convent.

Memorable Meals—Top Basque specialties such as bacalao (cod) at Arzak; the best pintxos (Basque tapas) in town at Bar Asador Ganbara.

Late Night—Live jazz performances in an intimate cellar setting at Altxerri JazzBar.

Walks—Walking the winding path past verdant vegetation from the top of Monte Iguelo past the lighthouse down to the western end of La Concha beach; enjoying a scenic walk up to Monte Urgull; wandering the narrow-laned Parte Vieja (Old Quarter)

Gastronomic Societies are vitally important aspects in San Sebastián residents social lives...

Gastronomic Clubs are closed gastronomical societies where people come together to cook, experiment with new recipes, eat and socialize. They are prevalent institutions. Entry is only allowed if accompanied by a club member.

Members meet in a club complete with a kitchen for lunch or dinner, either with other members of the society or with their families and friends. However, gastronomic societies are often much more than simply a meeting place for their members; they organize cultural activities central to the social and leisure aspects of life in the city, particularly forming companies of tamborrada drummers. In fact, most of the adult companies that parade through the streets on San Sebastián Day belong to the gastronomic societies.

Do not miss the opportunity to visit and be part of a unique environment enjoying the best of Basque cuisine.

Meeting Point

Meet by the Goya statue at the main entrance, outside of the Prado Museum

With so much to do in Madrid, don't waste a minute in lines and attempting to decipher the meaning of priceless artwork.

This 5-hour private combo tour of Madrid's most visited museums will allow you to understand and enjoy both the Prado and the Reina Sofia, two sites that you simply must experience.

Begin at the Prado Museum, one of the most visited monuments in Madrid, and not just because of the breathtaking neoclassical facades. Built in the late 1700s, the Prado began showcasing art in the early 1800s. Predominantly featuring paintings, it also has sculptures and prints among thousands of works dating from the 1200s. The most famous pieces include “Las Meninas” (The Maids of Honor), an inventive self-portrait by Spanish-born Velázquez, and “The Garden of Earthly Delights,” a triptych from Dutch painter Hieronymus Bosch.

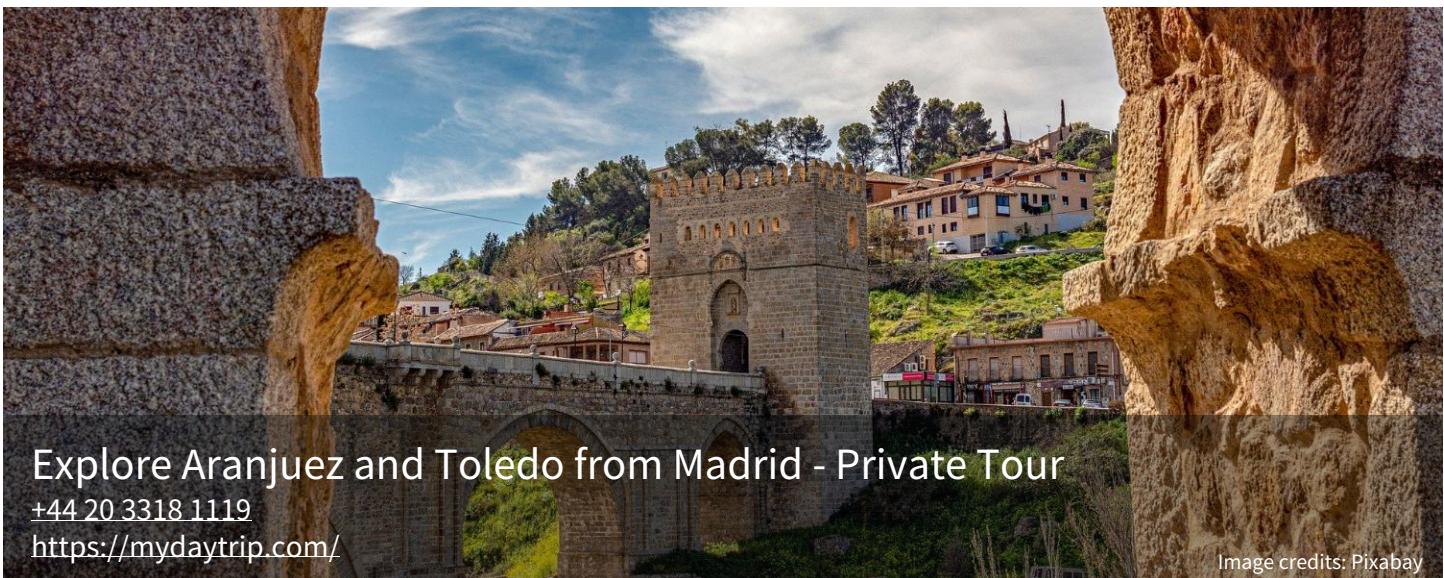

The Prado houses the largest collection of Italian masterpieces outside of Italy, featuring works like “The Annunciation” by Fra Angelico and “David and Goliath” by Caravaggio. With your expert guide, you’ll hear all about the stories and scandals behind artists including Goya, Rembrandt, El Greco, and others.

Next, enter the Reina Sofia Museum, housing one of the largest collections of modern and contemporary art in the world. In the 1990s, a former hospital was renovated and turned into the Reina Sofia, home to 20th-century art mostly from Spanish artists. Your expert guide will discuss the various artistic movements on display here, including abstractionism, cubism, surrealism, and modernism.

You’ll learn all about Spain’s most famous artistic export, Pablo Picasso, while standing in front of his world-changing painting, “Guernica.” You’ll see works by Joan Miró, like “The Man with a Pipe,” as well as Salvador Dali’s “Face of the Great Masturbator,” learning about the techniques and stories behind these sometimes offbeat works of art.

Your guide will situate all of these works in their larger social and political contexts, allowing you to understand how events like the Spanish Civil War shaped these artists’ lives and works. By the end, you’ll have experienced one of Spain’s, and the world’s, most exquisite collections of contemporary art, which no trip to Madrid should go without.

9:00 AM

Start Time

Meeting Point

Lobby of Westin Palace - please arrive 10 min early

The driver, Julio, will meet you in the lobby of Westin Palace Madrid at 9:00 AM sharp.

Aranjuez

The area was acquired by the Order of Santiago in 1178, but it wasn’t until Ferdinand and Isabella converted Aranjuez into a royal site in the 15th century that it rose to prominence. In the 16th century, King Philip II ordered the construction of the royal palace. The town was reserved solely for nobility until the 18th century when it was extensively redesigned. Today, Aranjuez offers visitors a wealth of beauty and history to explore. A walk through the Royal Palace is an opulent experience, with a taste for all things French, combining Rococo, Elizabethan, Chinese and Moorish decor. The surrounding gardens were modeled on Versailles, transforming nature into another room of the palace. Filled with flowers, trees, fountains galore, and the splendid Casa del Labrador. The city's Old Quarter is an Artistic Monument in its own right, and a dignified example of Baroque town planning combined with noble architecture.

Toledo

Settled since pre-Roman times, the city has held an important position for every major empire of the past 2000 years, including being the seat of supreme power under Charles V. Toledo's harmonious cultural history is what makes it such a unique attraction today. Here, visitors can see the Santa María la Blanca, the oldest remaining synagogue in Europe, before heading to see the military museum in a 10th-century Moorish fortress. Perhaps even more impressive than the hilltop citadel is the city's cathedral - the second largest in Spain. Built during the 13th century, many consider it Spain's finest example of the High Gothic style. Inside, the Cathedral is practically its own museum with an altarpiece by El Greco and its own gallery exhibiting works by the likes of Rubens, Van Dyck, and, of course, El Greco.

Itinerary

Meeting: Your friendly, English-speaking driver/guide will pick you up at your accommodation in Madrid.

Aranjuez: You'll get to enjoy rich Baroque architecture, culminating in the lavish Royal Palace.

Toledo: Famously a city where Christians, Jews, and Muslims lived in harmony, you'll see impressive monuments from each religion.

Return to Madrid.

Madrid Free Day

MADRID, SPAIN
@TRAVELBTA

Madrid, Spain, strikes a balance between constant, almost chaotic motion and uncompromising leisure. Madrileños, as Madrid's residents are called, seem always to be on the go, except when they're taking long breaks to eat, drink and enjoy life. The competing urges to move or sit for hours are cleverly reconciled in the Madrid institution known as ir de tapas, which entails leisurely hopping from one tapas bar to the next.

As a visitor to Madrid, you'll invariably be drawn into the city's stream of movement as you rush to see one more art collection, taste Castilian, Basque or Galician dishes at neighborhood restaurants, or buy tickets for an evening performance. But take a cue from Madrileños and incorporate some quiet time into your hectic schedule: People-watch at a terrace cafe, study the mystical quality in El Greco's paintings, savor the subtle hint of saffron in a dish, and appreciate the mournful beauty of flamenco. Take a deep breath, then move on to the next stop.
