At five minutes walking from the Spanish Steps and Via Condotti the hotel is located on the famous Via Veneto renowned as the meeting place of artists writers and actors during the Dolce Vita period and is now an enchanting pedestrian area close to the city's main attractions. The magnificent Art Nouveau style building was built between 1892 and 1894. The recent remodeling job which was completed at the beginning of 2009 has left the Art Nouveau style staircase the stairway skylights the decorated windows and the ochre marble columns untouched but has created two new areas extending off the main impressive hall.

The hotel was chosen by Queen Margherita of Savoy as her residence while she awaited the completion of her noble residence. The excellent service hospitality and kindness shown to the Savoy royalty were such that in 1911 the hotel's owner was granted permission to give the hotel the name Regina and to decorate the emblem with the Royal coat of arms. The Brunello Bar and Restaurant with its exclusive entrance directly off Via Veneto transports its guests into a unique atmosphere where traditional Italian elegance blends perfectly with contemporary design. Similar to a classy atelier it offers a modern lounge bar and 3 elegant restaurant areas with an unmatchable atmosphere created by the magical play of lights from handcrafted Moroccan lamps and contemporary focal lighting.

Earth and sea menus and traditional Italian dishes served as small work of arts revised and processed by Chef Luciano Sarzi Sartori surprise the eye and the palate a pleasure for all the senses. The Wellness Area a metropolitan oasis in which to rediscover harmony between body and soul with its intimate exclusive location with also a fully equipped fitness area available to clients. The genuine atmosphere allows to feel the authentic warmth and welcoming Italian hospitality while surrounded by art and history.

Self Guided Visit to Portofino

A mere 10 drive from Santa Margherita lies one of the most beautiful bays in all of Italy. Famous around the world as the play ground of the rich and famous Portofino basks in its timeless glory while embracing travelers of all backgrounds.

Just as Winston Churchill, Grace Kelly and Liz Taylor once spent their days lazily sailing along the coastline in their mega yachts and spent their evenings eating freshly caught fish with the paparazzi on their heels so do todays celebrities and the ultra wealthy from George Clooney to Steven Spielberg continue the tradition.

The reason it has maintained this steady stream of celebrity sightings for decades is due to its exclusivity and natural beauty.

Take a walk amongst the beautiful meandering streets, hike up to the view point and sip a cocktail at the famous Al Faro di Portofino, located on the terrace of Portofino's 100-year-old lighthouse. Al Faro boasts some of the most breathtaking views in the area, made all the more worthwhile as it can only be reached on foot after climbing several hundred stairs.

We recommend arriving in the afternoon for some relaxed strolling and shopping, the popping over to Al Faro for a drink before settling in at one of the excellent seaside restaurants for dinner.

Day 11

Private Yacht Cinque Terre

Located in the northwestern Italian region of Liguria, the Cinque Terre (Five Lands) is a string of five small towns dating back to the Middle Ages. They're located on a gorgeous, rocky stretch of the Ligurian Riviera coastline, between the cities of Genoa and La Spezia.

The towns of Riomaggiore, Manarola, Corniglia, Vernazza and Monterosso al Mare are locked between mountains and the sea. They are best known for their iconic, colorful houses dotting the coastline, all built on tiny, winding alleys. For lack of farmland, locals shaped the steep rocks of the surrounding mountains into dry stone terraces, where they grew vineyards and produced white wines and the famous sweet Sciacchettro passito wine, made from dried grapes.

The area is still unspoiled, and several hiking paths, famous for their charming nature and extraordinary views, connect the five towns. Because of the rare flora and unique environment, the coastline, the five villages, and the surrounding hillsides have been named a UNESCO World Heritage site.

Even though the Cinque Terre area has been populated since Roman times, the two oldest towns, Monterosso and Vernazza, were officially founded around the 11th century. The other villages are Corniglia, Manarola and Riomaggiore.
