Cuisine:

At 1800-Floga restaurant you can taste Greek traditional dishes with a modern touch. Our inventive chef and his team with their talent and skills, have created special dishes from appetizers to desserts to satisfy and spur even the most demanding palates. Using mostly the traditional Santorini products and top-quality products from around the world, they have designed a menu to indulge you in a gastronomic dream trip.

The presentation of the dishes is unique as each dish is an artwork for our chef. The tables are adorned with white and Bordeaux tablecloths, china and crystal glowing under the candlelight. The fine aroma of the exquisite Greek dishes harmoniously blends with the smell of the island breeze, making your dinner an unforgettable experience in one of the best restaurants in Santorini Greece.

History:

This luxury mansion was built around 1845 and is somehow interwoven with the history of Oia. At that time Oia, homeland of several shipowners, was flourishing and was developing into the largest commercial port in the Cycladic cluster.

The building is a typical Santorinian captain's house and was inhabited by Captain I. Sarris and his family. It experienced glorious days until 1956, when it was deserted because of an earthquake. In 1986, the architect-renovator Ioannis Zaggelidis undertook the restoration and renovation of the mansion. When he became acquainted with the style and the unique features of the building, he came up with the idea of converting the mansion into a new, Greek restaurant in Oia, Santorini Greece, which he named "1800". He is now the proud owner and host of the restaurant. The tour of the mansion begins from the two living rooms, where distinctive cross vaults can be seen. Most of its original features, such as its colors and its impressive furniture, have been preserved during the renovation: antique Santorinian sofas made of walnut wood, a mirror with a golden-plaster motif, carved curtain rails, a Venetian bed with a hand-painted baldachin and engravings the captain brought from Russia. In the entrance of the mansion you can see the captain's wooden travel chest, bearing his name "Ioannis Sarris - 1849" carved onto it, reminiscent of the ones sailors used to take on their journeys.

The Setting of 1800-Floga Today: Our restaurant used to be the first traditional bakery of Oia. It supplied with bread and other desserts Ia, Finikia and some other villages of Santorini. The daily production of bread was about 300 kilos and they used to carry it either with donkeys nor by hand. The bakery was a family business so it was operated and owned by our family. Our grand father Granpa-John and his 6 children worked in the bakery. They started the preparation of the bread at 3 a.m. as everything had to be done manually. They had to carry the water, the flour, prepare the yeast (which was homemade), knead and bake the bread.

In our establishment you can admire the oven they used as it is preserved till today. This was a professional oven as it was built with a special rock which is called maltezopetra and it does not exist any more. This rock had the ability to keep a steady temperature into the oven for 3 hours so they were able to bake the bread evenly. The procedure of the oven was the first that they used to do. They staffed the oven with wood which was given to them by the farmers of Finikia, they setted the fire and close the lid of the oven. When the wood was ashes the oven was ready to bake. Then they cleaned him thoroughly from the ashes and they threw them next to a deep hole, which they called carbon fiber and is still preserved in the restaurant. And finally they baked bread or whatever they wanted. Our restaurant is called also Floga as a tribute to our ancestors

Wine Experts Private Tasting Tour

+30 6977 435 033

Highlights:

Santorini shore excursions with a glass of wine-
Visit three of the best wineries of the island

Description:

Although Santorini is a small island, on the wine map is a place of high importance. The oldest continuously cultivated vineyards of the world, the vineyards of Santorini, were the birthplace of one of the most remarkable white grape varieties of the world, Assyrtiko. The peculiar microclimate of the island in combination with the distinctive volcanic terrain, a terrain extremely poor in organic matter but at the same time extremely rich in inorganic elements, gave to the island's wines unique characteristics such as minerality, very high acidity, and many alcohol degrees.

Its' amazing wines made Santorini the target of numerous conquerors, like the Venetians and the Francs. Follow your local guide in a tour in some of the islands most celebrated wineries. Walk inside an ancient vineyard and learn about the ancient vine cultivation techniques brought on the island by the Phoenicians millenniums ago, the famous "Kouloura".

Discuss about the traditional and the modern winemaking techniques while tasting famous white wines like Santorini PDO (Protected Destination of Origin), the young and very refreshing crispy white wine, Nychteri, the traditional aged dry wine of Santorini that was made during night with the distinctive barrel flavor and of course the well-known Vinsanto, the dessert sweet wine that will fill your palate with the flavor of caramel and raisins.

From the Chef

"We have been sharing many tasty secrets for a long time: the most delicious recipes of the Cretan and Santorinian cuisine, the freshest ingredients from our kitchen garden, refreshing raki (the iconic grape-based pomace brandy of Crete) and unique wines, our good spirits and our smile every time we welcome you. In a hospitable and relaxing space, reminiscent of an island house porch, and an atmosphere full of the Aegean Sea's colors and aromas, we serve authentic and original dishes made with care and fresh ingredients, inspired from the Santorinian and Cretan cuisine: fava (the famous yellow split pea dip) and white eggplant in the oven, fillet in Vinsanto sauce, and boneless pork chops in orange sauce with baked potatoes.

Between you and me, the most important thing is that, upon leaving our restaurant, you have a full stomach, and sweet memories..."

Pavilion Relais & Châteaux Restaurant at Myconian Utopia Resort

+30 2289 076060

Elia Beach, Mykonos 846 00, Greece

<http://www.myconianutopia.gr/>

With the famous Myconian night as its curtain call, the Pavilion restaurant delivers a star performance every evening. A refined menu in the true gourmet tradition of Relais & Châteaux is complemented by spectacular sea views and, naturally, an exceptional wine list that includes both international vintages and a selection of rare gems from Greek wineries picked by our expert sommelier.

Executive chef Nikos Moroglou describes his food as creative, pure, and authentically Greek. 'We emphasise the genuine flavour of the ingredients without overdoing it. After all, the Relais & Châteaux culinary philosophy is all about placing emphasis on tradition and local provenance.' Though he personally favours fish, his current favourite on the menu are the lamb chops with smoked aubergine puree, accompanied by a baby potato salad, fresh onions, cherry tomatoes, cucumbers, spearmint and a demi-glace sauce.
